

SERVICE ANIMALS & ASSISTANCE ANIMALS

There is a vast difference between a pet, a service animal and an assistance animal.

Pets: In general we do not allow pets in any of our family housing complexes. Fish tanks, under 20 gallons, and caged birds are allowed.

Service Animal: Are “An animal that has been specifically trained to help you with your disability.” We require proof the animal has received special training in helping an individual cope with a physical impairment, such as a Seeing Eye dog. We do not charge an additional damage deposit.

Assistance Animal: If the animal does not have specific disability-related training, then they may be requested as an assistance animal. A professional statement is required which links the need for the assistance animal with a diagnosed disability and how having the pet is necessary is coping with the disability. We do not charge an additional damage deposit.

Procedure for adding a Service Animal or Assistance Animal to your household: Service animals and assistance animals cannot be added to your household until all of the proper documentation has been completed, submitted and approved by our office.
